SESSION 352

Podcasts

Podcasting is a common form of information sharing and communication. A recent review of podcasts available for rural physicians determined that there are few series that are specifically developed for rural medicine.

This workshop will review the fundamentals of podcasting and engage participants in a discussion of the:

1. Level of interest in such an undertaking.
2. Value of a series of podcasts for rural practitioners.
3. Topics for the podcasts.
4. Logistics of this undertaking.
